Chapter Implementation Options

Grow your chapter, provide value to your members, and support your professional community. How? Choose one of the following options to integrate The IIA's CIA Learning System into your member services offerings.

Option One: College/University Partnership

If your chapter relies on volunteers to run the chapter and educational events, a partnership with your local college/university's continuing education department is the most effective way to incorporate The IIA's CIA Learning System program into your professional development offerings.

- Take advantage of established relationships with over 300 colleges and universities across the country.
- Benefit from co-branded college/university marketing that reaches beyond your membership.
- Provide members with an opportunity to take advantage of employer tuition reimbursement programs.
- Help identify and recruit qualified instructors.
- Hand over course logistics responsibilities to the College/University.

Option Two: Chapter-Direct

Chapters with extensive experience in delivering educational programming can build their portfolio by offering The IIA's CIA Learning System program on their own. This option allows you to utilize the learning system's participant materials and instructor tools to host your own study group, CIA Refresher Seminar, or Comprehensive Instructor-led Course.

- Purchase the materials at a discounted rate.
- Provide an opportunity for CIA certified members to lead a CIA review course.
- Implement the course with ease, as all student and instructor materials are readily available.
