Engagements must be performed with proficiency and due professional care.

Proficiency is a collective term that refers to the knowledge, skills, and other competencies required of internal auditors to effectively carry out their professional responsibilities. In order to enable relevant advice and recommendations, proficiency encompasses:

- Current activities.
- Trends.
- Emerging issues.

Changes that may affect the industry or the internal audit profession may be learned about via continuing professional development. The CAE may help ensure the internal audit activity's overall proficiency in this regard.

Internal auditors generally develop individual proficiency throughout their careers:

- By obtaining and maintaining appropriate certifications.

Quizzes

- Test your comprehension
- Get immediate feedback and rationale

The screenshot displays the 'Quality Assurance and Improvement Program Quiz' interface. At the top, there is a red header with the IIA's CIA Learning System logo and a navigation menu icon. The question text asks: 'An external quality assessment as part of a quality assurance and improvement program (QAIP) of an internal audit department provides reasonable assurance of what?'. The 'Answers' section lists four options, with the second option, 'Conformance of audit work with all mandatory guidance including Code of Ethics and the Standards', marked as correct. Question 2 of 125 &lt;&lt;

Item ia1023

An internal audit department is currently undergoing the first external quality assurance review since its formation three years ago. From interviews with a few of the staff auditors, the review team is informed of certain auditor activities that have occurred over the past year. Which of the following activities could affect the quality assurance review team's evaluation of the objectivity of the internal audit department?

Answers

- One internal auditor tells the review team that, during the payroll audit, he was approached by the payroll manager. The manager indicated that he was looking for an accountant to prepare the financial statements for his part-time business. The internal auditor agreed to perform this work for a reduced fee during non-work hours.
- An auditor's participation was requested on a task force to reduce the company's inventory losses from theft and shrinkage. This was the first consulting assignment undertaken by the audit department. The auditor's role was to advise the task force on appropriate control techniques.
- After reviewing the installation of a data processing system, the auditor made recommendations on standards of control. Three months after completing the audit, the auditee requested the auditor's review of certain procedures for adequacy. The auditor agreed and performed this review.
- During the audit of the company's construction of a building addition to the corporate office, the vice president of facilities management gave the auditor a commemorative mug with the company's logo. These mugs were distributed to all employees present at the groundbreaking ceremony.
